Linking to the Full-text of Electronic Articles – Using Citation Linker to copy the OpenURLs of articles

Instruction & Reference Services
Run Run Shaw Library
City University of Hong Kong
Access Citation Linker.

No need to fill in all text boxes. Just enter those required to take you to the article.

e.g. Journal Title, Year, Vol & Issue Numbers, Start Page.
Citation Linker

Or, if you know the DOI (Digital Object Identifier) of the article, you can simply enter the DOI. Then click “Submit”.

DOI 10.1007/s12257-016-0586-6
You will see the article record with “View it” links to access the full-text from two or more sources. Copy either the web address at the top or the PERMALINK under “Send to”. Both of them are OpenURLs.
This is an example of an OpenURL:

NOTE: Sometimes the “View it” part may only have one link (i.e. one single source) to access the full-text of the article. If this is the case, the system will bring you directly to the database instead of showing you an article record with the OpenURL.

To copy the OpenURL of this article, from the database page, click the back button of the browser. Then quickly copy the OpenURL from the address bar at the top before you are redirected again to the database page.